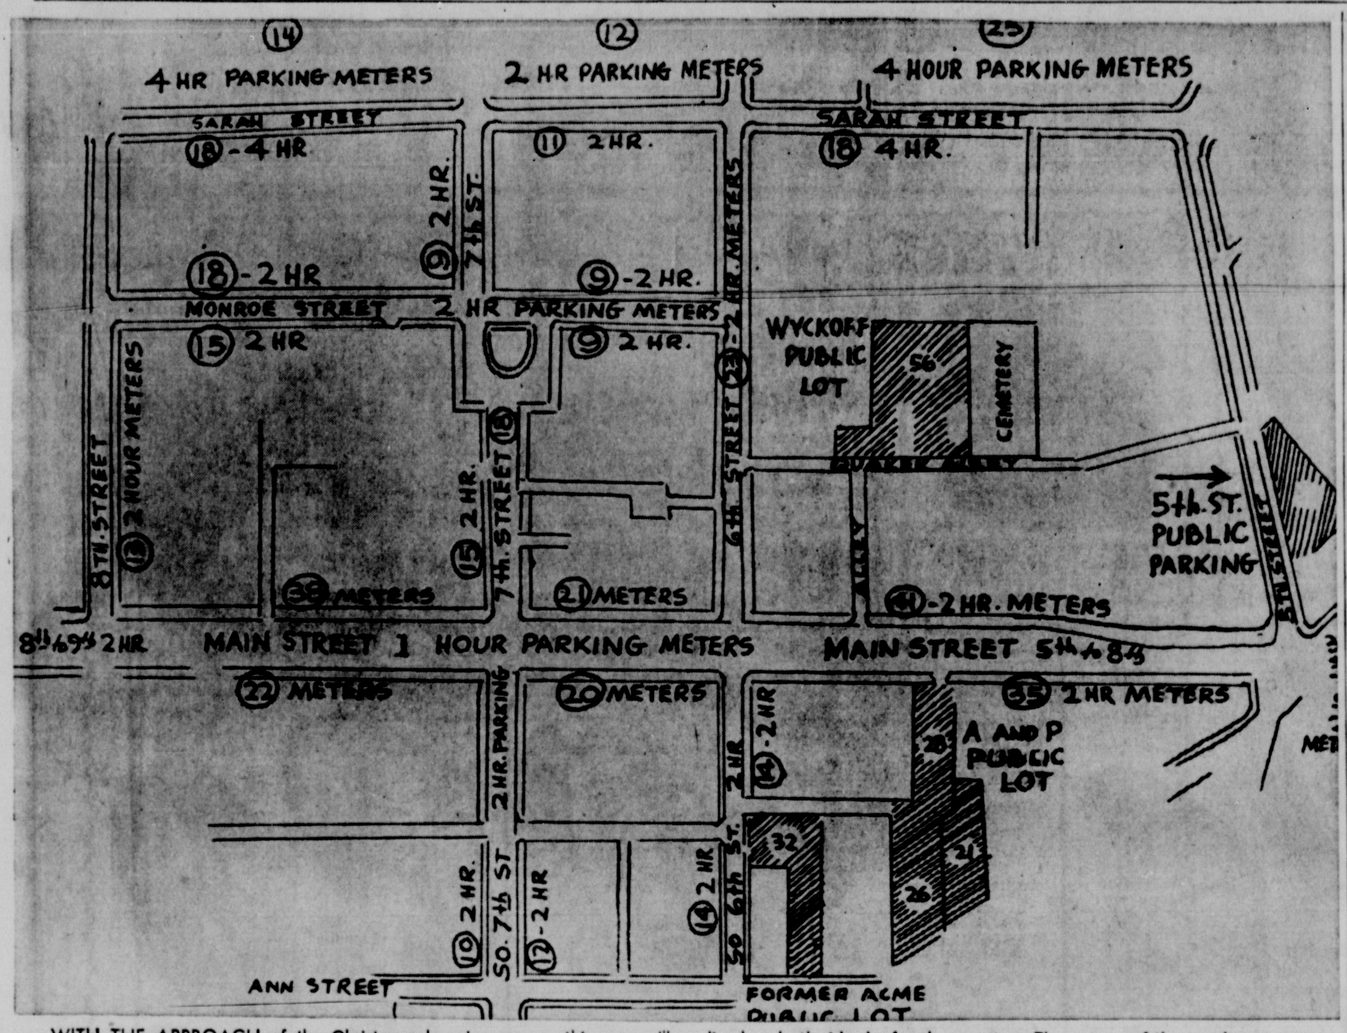
Non-Profit Body Set To Promote Shortway



WITH THE APPROACH of the Christmas shopping season, this map will prove helpful to shoppers hunting parking facilities in Stroudsburg's business district. Streets where one, two and four-hour meters are located are shown, together with number of meters in each block. Two sections of Sarah St. are lined on both sides by four-hour meters. The rest are of the two-hour type except for a section of Main St. Public parking lots are the shaded areas. Figures indicate number of spaces for cars.

Rosenberg Linked To Satellites

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21 (AP) — Senate Red probers said today convicted atom spy David Greenglass told them in a prison interview that Julius Rosenberg carried earth satellite, atom-powered airplane and antimissile secrets to the Russians shortly after World War II.

Counsel Robert Morris of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee described today's interview with Greenglass at a subcommittee hearing here.

Greenglass is a prisoner in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, where Morris talked with him before flying to Philadelphia. Greenglass was a brother-in-law of Rosenberg, executed with his wife, Ethel, in 1953 for giving U.S. atom secrets to the Soviet Union.

Army Officer

At the Philadelphia hearing, a former Soviet army officer testified that Russians kidnaped some 2,000 German scientists between 1944 and 1947.

They included missile scientists and experts in the fields of electronics and chemicals, said Vladimir Shabinsky of New York City, who identified himself as a lieutenant colonel in the Soviet army until 1947.

"My leaders told me and other officers in Germany after World War II that the United States was our No. 1 enemy," Shabinsky said.

Earlier, Morris told the subcommittee session, presided over by Sen. Butler (R-Md), "Greenglass told us that Rosenberg was stealing secrets about space platforms and atomic-powered airplanes."

Morris also interviewed Harry Gold, another convicted atom spy and fellow prisoners of Greenglass at Lewisburg.

Morris stressed what he said were demands placed on Gold by his espionage leaders that he acquire American processes rather than mere theories.

Morris said: "It is evident the Soviet kept hammering at Gold to save Russia time and money by getting this information.

"Gold told me that his leaders praised him for saving them a lot of sweat and tears."

Other witnesses called to testify regarding alleged Communist associations included George Merlo, Phillipsburg, N. J., a tanning factory employe at Easton, Pa.; Robert Miller, Easton, another tanning factory employe; C. W. Fowler of Hammonton, N. J., former poultry farmer and now an official of the United Electrical Workers District Council in Philadelphia, who said he is in the food distribution business.

All witnesses invoked the 1st and 5th Amendments in response to questions regarding alleged Communist associations.

Morris said FBI undercover agents and others had named these men in connection with party activities in the Delaware Valley area.

Wetzel Found As Vagrant In California Jail

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—The FBI today identified a man held in prison here on a vagrancy charge as Frank Edward Wetzel, mental institution escapee sought in the killing of two North Carolina state patrolmen.

Wetzel had been the object of an intensive search since Nov. 14, when the FBI identified his prints on a stolen car involved in the double killing.

Wetzel was arrested Tuesday night in Bakersfield, 110 miles north of Los Angeles, when police observed him acting suspiciously in an alleyway. He was booked as a vagrant under the name James Eric Mosher and the following day was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

But in the meantime his fingerprints were discovered on a stolen car found near the alley where he was arrested, and the FBI was called into the case.

Agents from the Los Angeles office said Wetzel admitted his identity when confronted with the information that his prints had checked out as those of the hunted slayer.

Wetzel is due to be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner William Hulsay on three federal violations, unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder, transporting a stolen car over a state boundary and violating the federal firearms act. Total bond of $150,000 was recommended.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, who first announced Wetzel's arrest in Washington, told of the intensive search for the 36-year-old fugitive since he slipped from a New York mental hospital last month. He had been believed headed for Mississippi to free his brother from a death cell.

Hoover said:

"Wetzel has been the subject of a nationwide manhunt since Nov. 14, 1957, when the FBI identified his fingerprints found on articles in the stolen car involved in the double killing of the N. C. patrolmen Nov. 5.

"Investigation of Wetzel's movements revealed he has been involved in many burglaries in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky during which firearms, ammunition, jewelry and clothing were stolen.

"Patrolman Wister Lee Reese and James Thomas Brown of the North Carolina State Highway Patrol were killed the night of Nov. 5, 1957, as they attempted to question the driver of a speeding 1957 Oldsmobile on a North Carolina highway. Wetzel is charged

Heller Named To Committee For East

SPLIT ROCK — Delegates from 28 counties voted to form a non-profit corporation to promote and insure construction of the 300-mile Keystone Shortway at a meeting here last night.

They also set a $100,000 budget for themselves. The money will be used not only in promoting construction of the Shortway but in the broad-scale encouragement of industrial location all along the route.

To raise the needed money the group split itself into two sections. Committees will serve each section.

The committee for the Eastern division was appointed yesterday. It included Ted Thayer of Lehigh Navigation and Coal Co.; Paul Cerula of Radio Station WAZL in Hazleton and Horace G. Heller, general manager of The Daily Record in Stroudsburg.

Finance Chairman

Thayer, Cerula and Heller told delegates yesterday that they will appoint a finance chairman for their section "within one week." A committee for the Western division will be announced later this week.

Finance chairmen for the two sections will seek to raise the necessary $100,000 for the non-profit group's budget by contacting Chambers of Commerce, other industrial groups and private industry or businesses in each of the 28 counties.

Chairman Z. H. Confair presided over yesterday's meeting. Representing the far-western end of the Shortway route (Sharon) was Frank Ward. Those representing Monroe County, as the Eastern end of the route, were Clifford Cramer, R. LeRoy Dengler, C. R. Bensinger, J. Horace Strunk and Heller.

Richard R. Haratine, director of public information for the State Department of Commerce and Theodore Berger, public relations director for Lehigh Valley Navigation and Coal, were named to a two-man committee. Their job, as set down by delegates, is to find a public relations firm which will conduct all promotional activities in conjunction with the proposed formal dedication of the Shortway on May 30.

As part of the program to arouse and sustain public interest in the project, the group plans to stage a semi-historical celebration. It would include, as a basic part of the festivities, a dramatic staging of a "meeting" between the East and West sections served by the route.

To do this the group hopes to stage a "ride" from each of the two opposite extreme points, starting from Sharon end of the route would be a man impersonating the late George Croghan who was deputy superintendent of Indian Affairs in the cabinet of Gov. William Johnson.

The Eastern section's symbol of historical achievement would be "Chief Teddyescung," chief of the Delaware Indians. The two men would meet at the dedication point.

Delegates to yesterday's meeting hailed it as a highly successful one and pointed out that this marked the beginning of a concrete program for continued growth and prosperity for all areas to be served by the Shortway.

C. E. Noyes, secretary of the Williamsport Chamber of Commerce, acted as secretary of the meeting.

Oddities Prevail

It Happened In Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21 (AP) — One initial too many: Albert C. Dingler of Jersey Shore and Henry W. Rozenberg of Porter Twp., lost elections in Lycoming County — even though they got the most votes — because someone forgot to put their complete names on both ballots, or put too much in one.

Dingler, a Republican, received 538 votes for justice of the peace on the GOP ticket, 549 on the Democratic side, but the county commissioners refused to total the two because his name carried a middle initial on only one ballot. His opponent got only 760 votes.

The same situation cost Rozenberg a post of school director.

JAIL OPEN HOUSE: Officials of the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg observed the prison's 25th anniversary with a dinner attended by more than 500 persons from Union, Northumberland and Lycoming counties.

The prison band was featured on the open house program but for the musicians and other inmates the policy, of course, remained "closed door."

NO PLACE Like Home: Henry J. Post, chief of Philadelphia's housing and fire section of the Department of License and Inspections, quit his $8,719-a-year job because he didn't want to live in the city, as required by a city law.

Post lives in Abington, a Philadelphia suburb.

ROADS — Pennsylvania Has 'Em: The Keystone State has 107,497 miles of roads and streets of which 77 per cent has improved surfaces. What's more, of the 41,000-mile state highway system only 108 miles are still dirt covered.

York County has the most dirt roads: 1,146 of the 3,044 miles in Pennsylvania are located in York County.

MILK DRINKERS —Pennsylvania led all northeastern states in 1956 in increased participation in the school milk program.

The State Milk Control Commission reports that 3,957 schools consumed nearly 83 million half-pints of milk, an increase of 45 per cent over 1955.

FISH STORY—Ed Moore of Sayre caught one of the biggest wall-eyes ever pulled out of the Susquehanna River. The fish measured 29 inches and weighed nine pounds.

TALE OF A NUDE — Police Sgt. Charles Young of Whitemarsh Twp., Montgomery County, spotted the unclothed figure of a woman lying face down on a road near the Schuylkill River.

He took the "body" to the police station where fellow officers found some spare clothes. Then they locked her in a cell. Police Chief Edgar E. Mitchell threatened, not too seriously, to lodge a charge of vagrancy against the life-sized dummy.

Progress Reports Made On Missiles

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The capital heard a rapid succession of progress reports on U.S. missiles today, including word that intermediate-range weapons are ready for the production line.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex) said top-level decisions will be forthcoming soon—possibly this week—to resolve Pentagon policy differences and to go into high gear operational production of the intermediate-range ballistic missile—IRBM.

The Defense Department announced plans to build a 65-million dollar missile site near Cheyenne, Wyo., apparently to launch American intercontinental ballistic missiles—ICBMS—when such devices are ready.

Starting Point

Although the department said only that the project is "required to support the missile program," it was learned reliably that it is intended as the starting point for the flight of a 5,000-mile-range weapon.

Dr. John Hagen, director of Project Vanguard, told reporters his scientists expect to put a six-inch test satellite into orbit next month and follow it with a fully instrumented, 20-inch sphere in March.

Preliminary tests have been successful, Hagen said, and "all we have to do now is to set it up and light the fuse."

Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine, deputy chief of staff for Air Force materiel, disclosed the Air Force is actively working on the development of manned ballistic vehicles and space platforms.

Gein's Plea Of Innocent To Murder Of Neighbor Woman Based On Insanity

WAUTOMA, Wis., Nov. 21 (AP) — A haunted little recluse pleaded innocent by reason of insanity today to a charge of murdering a neighbor woman because she reminded him of his mother.

Two women, 51-year-old Edward Gein told authorities, "reminded" him of his mother during the past two years. He killed and mutilated both of them. Before the killings started, he said, he looted at least nine graves which held female bodies.

Gein, who had been held under $10,000 bond on an armed robbery charge, was arraigned for first-degree murder today and bound over to Circuit Court.

Dist. Atty. Earl Kileen and defense counsel William Belter already had agreed on a sanity test. Kileen said that Circuit Judge Herbert A. Bunde would set a date for Gein's upper court appearance—and likely the mental test — within two weeks.

Without Hearing

The court may, under Wisconsin statute, commit Gein to the Central State Hospital for the Criminal Insane without hearing the murder trial.

Gein is charged specifically with the murder of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58-year-old operator of a hardware store near his Plainfield farm last Saturday. He also has admitted shooting, and butchering in the same fashion, 54-year-old Bancroft tavern operator Mary Hogan in December 1954.

Dist. Atty. John Haka Jr., of adjacent Portage County, where Bancroft is located, said today that he did "not contemplate any charges" in Mrs. Hogan's slaying until the State Crime Laboratory completes its studies of a vast array of gruesome physical evidence collected from the Gein farm.

Lab director Charles Wilson said it might be months before that study is completed.

Both women, Gein said, reminded him of the invalid mother whose death, following a series of paralytic strokes, left him alone in the secluded central Wisconsin farm home 12 years ago.

The frail-appearing Gein, during four days of questioning, told authorities of how an unnatural attachment to his mother grew to obsessions with sex and led to the opening of new graves and finally to the two brutal slayings.

Oedipus Complex

Charles Wilson, criminologist in charge of the State Crime Laboratory, said today, "I suspect that we may have an Oedipus complex involved here."

Gein, under questioning by Wilson and the law enforcement officials of five counties, summed it up more simply by saying that after his mother died, "I wanted to become a woman."

Three Refuse To Answer Red Question

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Rep. Walter (D-Pa) said three witnesses questioned by the House Committee on Un-American Activities today about their forbidden Red China trip declined to answer when asked if they were Communists.

A fourth witness, Sahag Avedisian, 27, Pawtucket, R. I., said he wasn't a Communist and never had been, Walter said.

The committee identified the other three who testified in a closed session as Morris Block, Brooklyn, N. Y., Harry Bloksburg, 20, Newark, N. J., and Sheila Greenberg, 19, Rego Park, N. Y.

Youth Festival

Forty-two Americans attending a youth festival in Moscow last July went on to Red China in defiance of a State Department ban on travel there.

Walter, committee chairman, said the committee wanted to find out the "real purpose" of the visit to Red China. He said the committee also was interested in determining how the delegates to the Moscow meeting were selected—"who it was who picked these people, what the standards were to be selected."

Macmillan To Meet Gaillard

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan announced today he will go to Paris Monday to see Premier Felix Gaillard. Plainly his mission will be to smooth ruffled British-French relations.

Macmillan told the House of Commons he and Gaillard will discuss the Tunisian arms mixup and next month's summit meeting of NATO powers.

Boiler Blast Kills Two, Sinks Ship

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 21 (AP)—A boiler explosion blasted an Italian freighter to the bottom of the Naples harbor today, killing at least two men. Flying debris injured more than 100 others and spread destruction along the busy waterfront.

Darkness halted efforts by divers to search the shattered 2,275-ton Anna Maria Ievoli for from five to eight men believed trapped and dead in the debris.

The freighter was getting up steam at her dock for a trip to Sicily when the boiler blew up with a tremendous roar.

Shatters Windows

The blast shattered windows in Piazza Municipali, Naples' City Hall Square about 1,000 feet from the dock. Shattered glass struck persons in the square.

Rivets and steel plates were hurled among scores of passers-by on the docks.

Forty of them — the most badly injured — were taken to Pellegrini Hospital.

Another 60 to 75 were taken to first aid stations. Most of them were only slightly injured.

Eighteen members of the crew were aboard ship along with 10 workmen who were cleaning up the vessel.

Betty Henderson Dies

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Betty Henderson, cafe society's aged and captivating madcap, died today at the age of 82.

Snow, Winds, Rain Strike Scattered Parts Of Nation

HEAVY SNOW, tree-toppling winds and thunderstorms hit widely scattered sections of the country yesterday.

Snow about a foot and a half deep crippled Houghton, Mich. Snow ranged up to 6 inches in a Texas-New Mexico-Oklahoma borough area and up to 8 and 10 inches in New York State.

Violent desert winds caused widespread damage and slowed traffic in southern California.

Trees Fall

The blow knocked down trees and signs, shattered windows, snapped power lines, tore roofs off small structures and kicked up huge clouds of dust. Among the hardest hit California communities were Ontario, where gusts of 70 m.p.h. were clocked, Chino, Corona, Elsinore and Anaheim.

Visibility was reduced to five feet in dust-fogged Ontario. The highway patrol ordered Highways 71 and 192A closed.

Police ordered people off downtown streets in San Fernando where many glass storefronts were shattered. Officials reported three oil derricks fell across the Pacific Coast Highway at Huntington Beach. The road was closed.

Residents of Houghton, at the top of Michigan's Upper Peinsula, struggled through about 18 inches of snow. Most of it fell Tuesday but flurries persisted in freezing weather.

Roads Cleared

Main roads in the Houghton district were cleared but coatings of ice made them hazardous. Ice-burdened trees, knocked over by winds up to 5 m.p.h. pulled down telephone wires.

School buses were immobilized and school attendance dropped.

Snowplows and sanding trucks were put to work in the Texas Panhandle and adjacent sections of New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Leader Saves Life Of Judge Slayer

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21 (AP)—Gov. Leader today spared the life of Norman W. Moon, 32, convicted Warren County judge slayer, and ordered action taken to commit him to the Farview Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

The governor, in commuting the death sentence to life imprisonment, accepted the recommendation of the state Board of Pardons and the finding of three Pittsburgh psychiatrists that the Connellsville man was mentally ill.

Moon was under sentence to die in the electric chair at the Rockview Penitentiary the week of Dec. 2 for the pistol slaying of Judge Allison D. Wade in the Warren County courtroom on Jan. 13, 1954. Moon was before the court at the time in a non-support case brought by his estranged wife.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—Rocket engines powering the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile used a liquid fuel of oxygen and hydrocarbon, Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp. disclosed today.

Hoover Raps Schools For Nation's Lag

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Former Republican President Herbert Hoover said tonight the nation is lagging in science as a result of too much academic freedom in high schools.

He told the United Engineering Societies in a prepared speech:

"In my view there is a fundamental weakness from the too-prevalent high school system of allowing a 13- or 14-year-old kid to choose most of his studies. Academic freedom seems now to begin at 14.

"A youngster's first reaction in school is to seek soft classes, not the hard work of science and mathematics. Also, he has a multitude of extra-curricular activities which he considers more beguiling than hard work.

"You simply cannot expect kids of those ages to determine the sort of education they need, either for daily living or for the professions, unless they have some guidance."

Hoover spoke at a meeting during which plans were announced for a new 10-million-dollar United Engineering Center on United Nations Plaza between 47th and 48th Sts. The 20-story building is expected to be completed three years from now.

"Our higher institutions of learning have the capacity to train the recruits we need. The harsh fact is that the high schools are not preparing youngsters for the entrance requirements which must be maintained by our institutions training scientists and engineers."

Former U.S. Philippines Governor Dies

FLEMINGTON, N.J., Nov. 21 (AP)—Francis Burton Harrison, former governor general of the Philippines from 1913 to 1921, died today of a heart ailment in Hunterdon Medical Center. He was 83.

Harrison, who lived in nearby Califon, entered the hospital a week ago. He had been in failing health for several years.

Congress

Before he was appointed to the Philippines by Woodrow Wilson he served five terms in Congress as a Democratic representative from New York City.

His bill requiring doctors to account for all narcotics which they bought and distributed formed the basis for the later Pure Food and Drug Act.

Harrison has been called the "grandfather" of Philippine independence.

Missouri Congressman Loses Leg On Operating Table

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The right leg of Rep. Christopher (D-Mo) was amputated just above the knee in an operation yesterday at Bethesda Naval Hospital, members of his family said today.

They said his physicians reported this morning that Christopher's condition was good. He is expected to remain in the hospital about a month or six weeks and to be back at work when the next session of Congress opens in January.

Several Weeks

Christopher has been in the hospital for several weeks undergoing treatment for an arterial condition in the leg.

He told a reporter earlier this week he intended to seek re-election next year.

Novotny To Lead Czechs

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 21 (AP)—Broad-faced Antonin Novotny, who as a boy sold Communist newspapers on Prague street corners, became president of Red Czechoslovakia this week.

The 53-year-old party boss succeeded Antonin Zapotocky who died last Wednesday and was buried yesterday.

Cannon Salute

Novotny's election by the Red-ruled Czech Parliament was proclaimed by a cannon salute from the bastions at ancient Hrdcany Castle.

The vote was by the traditional — and unanimous — raising of hands in the rubber-stamp parliament. Novotny thus became the nation's president as well as party secretary.

State Promises To Fix W. Main St. Detour

Cleveland Protests Shape Of Road

REP. HANFORD L. Cleveland (R-Monroe) flew to Harrisburg yesterday to confer with Highways Secretary Lewis M. Stevens regarding the "deplorable condition" of the W. Main St. detour in Stroudsburg.

The assemblyman said he received a promise of "immediate action" from the secretary.

Cleveland reported on his return from the capital that he had arranged the conference with Stevens as the result of a mounting number of protests over the deteriorating condition of the detour in the last two weeks.

During the conference, Cleveland said, Stevens dictated a letter to district headquarters in Allentown advising officials there to see that the detour is put in first class shape by the contractor. This will include raising the walk that borders one side of the dirt-fill roadway, he added.

Praises Office

Cleveland said he praised the Monroe County maintenance office of the State Highways Department for the work it had done on the detour, but pointed out it was not the responsibility of Superintendent Joseph Ciampi and his staff to maintain the road.

The detour carries W. Main St. traffic around the site where a new bridge is being built over Pocono Creek. Built of earth and stone fill, the detour has been in poor condition for much of the time since it was put into use late last Summer.

The holes were filled with dirt and stone on at least two occasions, but the relief was only temporary. Each time there was an appreciable rainfall, the heavy traffic ground the fill out of the holes in short order, Cleveland recalled.

With two schools located in the area, considerable pedestrian traffic uses the foot-path adjacent to the roadway. In wet weather, the cars splash mud and water across the walk and on the pedestrians. Parents of school children are among the large number of people who have filed complaints about the detour, the assemblyman reported.

'Come Back Little Sheba' Hits Successful Note On First Night At Teachers College

By Leonard Randolph

IN "COME BACK Little Sheba", William Inge set down an unevenly-written but patiently compassionate study of a tortured marriage.

It is, in many respects, an unpleasant play. But most of the harshness it displays is part of the painful dissection of human character. It is a difficult work to perform.

Alpha Psi Omega, the drama fraternity at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, presented the first of two performances of the play last night. It was directed by Ralph Smith and the technical values combined with Smith's honest and often vivid staging combine to make it a worthwhile production.

Sue Van Zant plays "Lola", the slovenly housewife, and it is an effective performance. The part is almost impossible to play. "Lola" is immersed in maudlin self-pity. She cannot accept reality or responsibility, either to her husband or to herself. The fact that she and "Doc" (also well played, by Bruce Sheilenberger) were forced into marriage and are childless is brought out carefully in the play's plot.

But for "Lola", the past is symbolized in "Sheba", the little dog who disappeared and never returned. "Lola" is spending her life looking for memories which existed only in her own mind and which have no real connection with anyone else she has known.

She is, in nearly every way, a forlorn and pitiable creature. Yet it would be difficult to feel honest compassion for her as Inge has written the part. It takes a kind of acting magic to make "Lola" a believable and, at the end of the play, lovable person. Miss Van Zant comes through beautifully in the final scene. In the earlier scenes she ha sa tendency to make the woman a little more grossly annoying than she need be, perhaps, but it is a good performance just the same.

There are good supporting performances, also particularly by Edson Lott as the beef-brained athlete "Turk"; Saul Rosenberg as a milkman; Linda Wolfe as a kind-hearted next-door neighbor and Brenda Tek as the college girl. Rounding out the cast are Dominick Guzzi, Ken Rozelsky, Wayne Creveling and Ronald Dietrick.

"Come Back Little Sheba" takes a somewhat snickering view of sex, treating it in some scenes as an extra-curricular part of off-campus life. The introduction of an "affair" between "Turk" and "Marie", the coed, in the play serves as the dramatic impetus for a breakdown in "Doc's" armor against alcoholism. The relationship between the two, and "Doc's" attitude toward women is not too clearly realized in the present production, however.

The play will be presented again tonight at 8 in the ESSTC auditorium.

Vacation Bureau Okays 123 Resorts

APPLICATIONS of 123 resorts for membership in the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau were approved by the board of directors at a meeting last night in the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Included in the group are 38 members-at-large, 43 from the Top of the Poconos Assn. and 42 from the Eastern Poconos Assn.

Upon recommendations of the membership approval committee, the board rejected 10 applications including that of a prominent hotel-country club resort which is a former member of the organization.

Vote of Confidence

The board gave a unanimous vote of confidence to the recently-formed constitution committee. Its job will be to completely revise by-laws and constitution of the bureau in an effort to solidify and unify the various affiliated associations.

Members of the committee are Dr. Claude Leister, chairman; Harry Ahnert, R. LeRoy Dengler and Henry Arneberg.

J. Horace Strunk, executive secretary, announced that all completed contracts requesting membership approval must be in the vacation bureau offices by Dec. 10.

Scranton Men Seek Appeal

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21 (AP)—Four Scranton labor leaders convicted of conspiracy today formally asked the State Supreme Court for permission to appeal the verdicts.

A petition for allowance of appeal was filed by Hugh J. McMenamin, attorney for Joseph Bartell, Philip Brady, John Durkin and Anthony Bonacuse, all officials of the Scranton Building Trades Council, an affiliate of 26 unions, including the Teamsters.

Durkin is an officer of Teamsters Local 229. The others are members of building trades unions.

The four were convicted a little more than a year ago on charges of conspiracy in connection with the dynamiting in 1954 of a partly built house in Scranton. The work was being done by non-union labor.

The State Superior Court recently upheld the Lackawanna County Quarter Sessions Court conviction.

Former Temple Israel Rabbi Honored For Levittown Work

A FORMER East Stroudsburg rabbi and his congregation have received an award for upholding "in the face of hostile public opinion" the principle of racial equality.

The award was conferred on the Levittown, Pa., Jewish Center by the biennial convention of the United Synagogue of America at a meeting in Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., Wednesday.

Back of the award is the story of 31-year-old Rabbi William Fierverker, who, with the support of his congregation, extended the hand of brotherhood to a Negro family in the all-white community.

Spiritual Leader

Rabbi Fierverker was spiritual leader of Temple Israel here about two years ago.

Last August when William and Daisy Meyers moved into Levittown, their arrival touched off mob violence.

Rabbi Fierverker called off the remainder of his vacation, returned to Levittown and called his congregation together to ask it to welcome publicly its new Negro neighbors.

Overriding a small, opposition minority, the 450-member congregation voted to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Meyers to the community "expecting from them no more nor less than what is expected from any other citizens."

A resolution prepared by Rabbi Fierverker and approved by the congregation declared God is the Father and "all the world's children are His children."

Regardless of Color

It added all men are equal "without regard to color or a religious affiliation" and asked the community to maintain a "calm and reasonable attitude which will do away with violence, mob gatherings and panic selling."

The rabbi and the Rev. Ray L. Hardwick, a Protestant minister, were credited with playing a major role in clearing the way for the permanent residency of the Meyers.

L. D. Shinn Found Dead In Florida

LAWRENCE DADE SHINN, former area resort operator, died Wednesday at his home in Jacksonville, Fla., at the age of 51.

A native of Echo Lake, he was the son of A. T. and Edith Dade Shinn and was a member of the Episcopal Church.

Mr. Shinn, president of the United Engineering Co. of Florida, manufacturer of jalousies and screens, killed himself with a shotgun Wednesday night, Lt. Tom Heeney of the Duval County patrol reported yesterday.

Heeney said Shinn left a note indicating he was despondent.

Mr. Shinn moved to Jacksonville two and one-half years ago.

He was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in 1924 and attended George Washington University. He formerly operated Echo Lake Colony, now Vacation Valley.

Seven Years

Mr. Shinn had lived in Florida for seven years and owned and operated a home improvement firm there.

Surviving are his wife, Elizabeth; one sister, Mrs. Mary S. Morganthau, Philadelphia, and two brothers, John S. and Francis T. Shinn, both of Echo Lake.

Private committal services will be held at the convenience of the family in Stroudsburg Cemetery. The William R. Thomas Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Rail Freight Volume Down

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Railroad freight volume continued to decline last week, with loadings showing the largest drop in comparison with the previous year for any single week since August, 1954.

The Assn. of American Railroads today reported loadings for the week ended Nov. 16 at 647,298 cars. This was 116,600 cars or 15.3 per cent below the same week in 1956 and 118,918 cars or 15.5 per cent under the corresponding week in 195.

Rates Under Discussion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP) — A new government home financing program with interest rates set in the market is under "concentrated discussion" in the Eisenhower administration, housing chief Albert M. Cole said today.

Under the plan the Federal Housing Administration would insure 20 per cent of the risk on a loan, instead of 100 per cent as under the present program, and the mortgage lender would be free to fix the interest rate.

Spirit Of Thanksgiving

The inherent gratitude to God of Americans for their blessings of freedom and plenty—in a word, the Spirit of Thanksgiving — finds pertinent expression at this time in their response, through their religious faiths, to the plight of those in need in other lands.

In each of our great religious communities — Protestant, Catholic and Jewish — emphasis is currently being laid upon their world-wide ministries of assistance to the hungry, homeless and disaster stricken overseas.

In thousands of Protestant churches during Thanksgiving Week, special community and individual Thanksgiving services will highlight the Share-Our-Surplus appeal to finance free distribution of U.S. surplus food commodities to undernourished men, women and children abroad through the agency of Church World Service.

Simultaneously, Catholics in America, through the traditional "The Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Collection" will respond to an appeal for 10,000,000 pounds of clothing, minimum needs of the underprivileged and destitute in overseas areas ministered to by the Catholic Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

And, concurrently, in the "United Jewish Appeal Emergency Rescue Fund," the UJA, as the instrument of American Jews, is seeking aid for nearly half a million recent refugees and for other needy people abroad, to maintain programs of resettlement, constructive development and other assistance.

Because they spring from motivations virtually common to all basic religious philosophies, and give recognition, in this present-day scheme of things, to the paramount importance of the individual, these far reaching people-to-people programs are especially fitted to bring all men of good will into closer communion and to contribute to the lasting peace which all men of good will desire.

Business Breather

From the Federal Reserve Board, the highest authority on business conditions, comes the news that a recession has started in the United States. Industrial production is off from what it was a year ago. The drop is not as yet serious, and the slip is from a peak never before attained in the United States or anywhere else in the world.

The "breather," as the President calls it, results from a policy deliberately followed by the Government and the Reserve Board. Both were alarmed by the inflationary push of prices, and put on the brakes. That was the meaning of the tight money policy designed to make it less attractive to borrow funds for speculation or expansion.

The recession shook out the stock market and some wholesale commodity prices. It has not yet lowered the prices housewives and consumers generally are still compelled to pay. For that the nation also has official confirmation. The cost of living index has risen steadily for over a year. Industrial production is receding in volume, but as far as consumers can judge price inflation continues.

The managing of the nation's economy is an intricate and tricky operation. The Reserve Board's decision to ease its tight money policy by lowering the discount rate indicates it doesn't intend to allow the recession to go too far. That could result in unemployment; and throwing workers out of jobs is a wasteful method of bringing down prices.—Philadelphia Bulletin

Budgets Juggled

Washington, Nov. 21—President Eisenhower is tagging agriculture, Veterans Administration and defense stockpiling, in that order, for the steepest cuts to provide the increased funds for the new military budget.

$1.485 billion is the total to be slashed from these three "categories."

That is approximately 80 percent of the 1.813 billion in such "savings" the President is seeking from a combination of six "categories." The other three are: Departments of Health, Education & Welfare; Commerce; Labor; various housing activities; and the regulatory agencies.

Pruning 1.813 billion from the expenditure of these six "categories" is about the amount needed for the $40 billion defense budget that was indicated by Secretary McElroy, following his Augusta conference with the President.

These are the highlights of a policy memorandum Budget Director Brundage is circulating among key officials, regarding the plan projected by the President in his recent Oklahoma City speech: "Some programs while desirable are not absolutely essential . . . Savings of the kind we need can come about only through cutting out or deferring entire categories of activities."

As detailed in Brundage's private directive, this budget juggling plan calls for the following:

Categories	Current Expenditure Estimates	Proposed Estimates
Agriculture Stockpiling	$5,483,000,000	$4,600,000,000
Veterans	560,000,000	250,000,000
Commerce & Housing	5,092,000,000	4,800,000,000
Labor & Welfare	2,168,000,000	2,000,000,000
General Gov't	3,569,000,000	3,269,000,000
	1,360,000,000	1,300,000,000

How They're Sliced—The proposed $883,000,000 "saving" from agriculture funds is to come mainly from two sources—heavy slashes in crop price support payments, and the soil bank program.

Brundage's backstage memorandum does not specify the individual totals of these two dynamite-loaded cuts.

Neither does the Budget Director list the items comprising the $292,000,000 to be pared from Veterans Administration expenditures. However, he does give two significant clues as to where most of this money is to be derived from:

By eliminating "many beds in VA hospitels," and "consolidating certain veterans' pensions with the social security system."

Further, these VA "economies" are just the beginning. Brundage states clearly "much larger savings" already are contemplated in the VA budget for fiscal 1960, which the Budget Bureau will begin working on a year from now.

Chiefly hit in the $310,000,000 slash in defense stockpiling are materials and metals, particularly nickel, tungsten and aluminum.

This pruning is already underway. Brundage's memo discloses the White House has directed the General Services Administration, which handles stockpiling purchases, to cancel all contracts that do not require large termination charges.

Foremost among the regulatory agencies whose budgets could be cut are: Federal Power Commission; Federal Trade Commission; Federal Communications Commission; Securities & Exchange Commission; Civil Aeronautics Board.

The proposed large increases for foreign aid and the Atomic Energy Commission are to be obtained in still another way.

As explained by Brundage, these additional funds will come from the $559,000,000 boost in postal rates which has been pending in Congress for several years, and $500,000,000 in British credits that will not recur in the new budget.

Big Demand—Foreign shipments of Salk vaccine are booming. In the past six months, more than 8,000,000 cc's have been sent abroad. That's what the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee has been informed by the Commerce Department. Of these large exports, 1,000,000 cc's are going to satellite Hungary, in response to urgent pleas due to a serious polio epidemic. Reports from Hungary indicate that about 80 percent of the cases involve children under six years of age. Chief among the countries receiving Salk vaccine are: Mexico, Brazil, Cuba, Argentina, Chile, Panama, Peru, Venezuela, Uruguay, West Germany, Holland, Sweden, and Liberia. . . . Discussions are underway for a visit early next year by newly-elected Philippine President Carlos Garcia. Plans for his trip will be worked out by Ambassador Bohlen, when he comes to Washington shortly for consultation.

Dead, or Just Playing Possum?

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Mobsters Fear Little

The Mob

From time immemorial, some men have engaged in marginal industries which are sometimes illegal. For instance, salt smuggling was a marginal trade in China and the smugglers were organized in a tight group of bandits. Often the leaders of such bandit groups obtained official sanction as did my friend, General Pei Paoshan, one of the most gentlemanly salt smugglers I ever encountered.

The opium trade has, at times, been legal and at other times illegal. It is a marginal trade now engaged in only by racketeers. But within my memory and experience, it was a legal trade in which many distinguished American and British firms engaged, among them the Delano family of Hongkong and Shameen, from whom was descended none other than Franklin D. Roosevelt. Opium, when it was legal trade, was openly sold in chests at public auction.

The mob, as it is called, is engaged in the United States in marginal industries which exist, according to the law of supply and demand. Such industries include prostitution, dope, gambling (where forbidden by law), etc. Actually, there are not enough illegal industries to absorb the illegal earnings of the mobsters who therefore infiltrate and even absorb legitimate enterprises and make them subject to the rule of the mob.

Such legitimate industries are juke box installations, labor union operations, municipal supplies of various kinds, the garment industry, etc., etc.

Once a mobster has accumulated surplus capital, often untaxed, the problem is to legitimatize the money. That is very difficult because of the tax laws. The mobster must therefore get his money out of the country and bring it back as legitimate foreign money. The European and Latin American tax havens are useful in this respect and are used by the mob.

Some of the so-called takeover investors who have become so notorious in recent years, and of whom we speak as using Swiss money, are often front men for the mob, working on a commission basis, strutting about in fancy restaurants with professional ladies of the night, until the mob drops them for being too notorious.

Real estate, night clubs, laundries and similar legitimate investments were made until the mob moved into the take-over business, involving millions of dollers, usually referred to as Swiss money, but coming also from Hamburg, Amsterdam, Canada, Venezuela and other places.

J. Edgar Hoover, in a recent speech before the FBI National Academy, said:

"Eight years ago, when the last restraining session of the National Academy Associates was held in Washington, we faced the worst wave of lawlessness ever to confront this Nation. At that time, there were many shallow-thinking Americans who felt our growing crime problem was merely a dying manifestation of the moral letdown experienced by our Nation after World War II. Despite repeated warnings, they failed to act; and it is we in law enforcement who must shoulder the added burdens which have resulted from their shortsightedness."

The frustrated meeting of the mob at Apalachin, New York, was, in effect, a gathering of marginal businessmen who operate through their own trade association. As some of their activities are illegal, they cannot employ ordinary law enforcement agencies for their purposes; so, they resort to extortion and murder.

To prevent over-competition in their various activities, they lay out territories and define industries. This method is a very ancient one among those engaging in marginal industries, including professional begging which used to be one of the most highly organized of human activities.

Competition is particularly dangerous in the marginal industries because it tends to open the doors to the police. Therefore a central control is set up and that controlling agency enforces its will by murder. It is also necessary to work out percentages, so that each man knows what his "take" is in every transaction.

In the United States, it is particularly difficult to cope with this situation because we have 49 sets of laws, which makes for confusion; we have a combination of the mob, politics and labor unions in the big cities; finally, egress is easy, as, for instance, to Canada or Mexico or wherever a passport is not requierd.

Law enforcement is also hampered by the excellent constitutional precautions against tyranny, particularly the rules of evidence and due process. The result is that except as they fear murder, most mobsters fear little.

The Pennsylvania Story

Analyzing Candidates

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg—While a shot at Pennsylvania's governorship is in the offing next year, strange as it may seem this office for once in itself is not the underlying basic concern of either Democratic or Republican strategists.

This is not to say that the office of governor is viewed as of relative unimportance.

To the contrary, it still remains the top office in the Keystone State.

The point to be made however insofar as 1958 is concerned is that the successful gubernatorial candidate is expected to pull heavily—perhaps decisively—on the critically important allied offices at stake.

Is is this then that places in the minds of strategists of both parties the conviction that the candidate personality more than the office will be of decisive importance.

Admittedly this becomes somewhat of a fine line of distinction but to those whose business it is to match their wits in the sometimes artless game of political maneuvering, the line of distinction is becoming of increasing importance.

In a nutshell it boils down to successful coattail riding.

With no presidential prospect to follow in 1958 on the national level, the next best rests on Pennsylvania's gubernatorial candidates.

For this reason leaders of both parties in Pennsylvania are taking unusually long, hard looks at gubernatorial prospects for 1958.

Each has no choice next year other than to field the best possible candidate, with party considerations for once relegated to a secondary position.

The conviction is fairly firm on both sides of the aisle that the gubernatorial candidate emerging the victor next year will carry with him or influence greatly control of (1) Pennsylvania's 30-man congressional delegation (2) the State House of Representatives; (3) the State Senate, and (4) the lone U. S. Senate seat from Pennsylvania up for filling next year.

At present the congressional delegation of the Keystone State is split with 17 GOP members and 13 Democratic members.

In the Legislature the 50-member State Senate is held by Republicans 27 to 23.

The State House of Representatives also is in GOP hands by a roll call of 126 to 84.

A condition such as this, with the legislative branch in control of one party (Republican) and the executive branch in the hands of the opposition party (Democratic), leaves both pretty much in a standoff position.

The knot in which the Democratic Leader Administration found itself tied during both the 1955 and 1967 sessions illustrates the point.

A similar illustration can be found on the national level where the Republican Eisenhower Administration had been faced with a Democratic Congress.

Neither party wants a repitition of this next year.

The key to avoiding this in the eyes of both lies in having the stronger gubernatorial candidate.

While the office of governor is still the top spot in Pennsylvania, it is the candidate for this very office that is expected to have a perhaps decisive influence on the other critical offices—particularly in the legislative field—at stake next year.

Good Evening Ladies!

Eat Breakfast Alone

By Ken Duvall

Breakfast, it says here in a magazine piece by a love and marriage expert is the most crucial time of the day, for it is there that the caraway seeds of content or discontent are sown. Divorce she says, is more likely to start at the breakfast table than in the boudoir, as most experts contend. She did not say so, but I surmise that the combination of breakfast in bed could be deadly.

Well, we've licked this problem at our house by the simple expedient of never having breakfast together, but there was a time when we did. There was a rash of husband-wife programs on the radio at the time and they were pretty sickening. Now, I read, there is talk of bringing back these things on early morning television and they may have done so, for all I know.

I can imagine what they're like. The wife is wearing a gorgeous negligee and is groomed for a ball. He is bright-eyed and bushy-tailed in his gray flannels. The breakfast, served on the terrace, looks as though it has been sent over from the Waldorf-Astoria. The dialogue is brittle and brilliant.

That's not the way it was at our house at all, as I remember it. I showed up at the kitchen table wearing my rumpled brown tweeds, the morning paper and my hat, because I had only ten minutes to catch a bus. That certain party, whose name I am forbidden ever to mention here, and heaven knows I never have, showed up in a faded bathrobe, a hottentot coiffure and both eyes pasted shut. In a script of this piece, the dialogue would have read something like this:

She (pouring coffee and missing the cup) Good morning, darling, you look lousy.

He: Morning. You're not Rosalind Russell yourself.

(There is a long silence, broken only by the rustle of the newspaper and the squawk of a parakeet which has been left with us to board.)

He: Can't you ever learn to cook eggs slowly?

She: Why don't you eat down town if you don't like it around here?

Poor Old Jim

He: I see Jim Morgan died last night. Well, that'll make his wife happy.

She: At any rate, she'll know where he is nights.

He: Hm-m-m, I wonder if he left anything.

She: He probably left it where you leave most of yours —Jake's Place.

He: Why do you always try to start something when you know I don't feel well? I have a hard day ahead of me.

She: And a hard night behind you. Leave me some money. The laundry man collects today and I'm having lunch with Gertrude. It's her birthday and I have to buy her something. I don't know what. She has everything.

He: For the woman who has everything, I recommend penicillen.

(Music starts softly, the Dead March from "Saul", then swells to the finish.)

He: Goodbye, darling.

She: (As door slams.) Goodbye. Hey! How about that money?

As much as I hate to agree with this love and marriage expert, I must admit that things are better around here since breakfast was eliminated. We are both in much better form at dinner and the dialogue is brittle and brilliant. If there ever is any trouble around here, it will start in the boudoir, as the other experts say it will.

"Lincoln, A Picture Story Of His Life"

Stefan Lorant's "Lincoln, a Picture Story of His Life" will be published by Harper's on Nov. 27. This is the definitive pictorial treatment of Abraham Lincoln's life in 600 pictures— some of them never before seen. A most fascinating book, it should be in the hands of every child and adult. The following are paragraphs which Lorant jotted down during his research and sent to us in commemoration of the 94th anniversary of the Gettysburg Address.

For a long time it was believed that Lincoln wrote the Address on the back of an envelope while riding on the train to Gettysburg. Andrew Carnegie, then a young man, was on the train as Secretary to the President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and he asserted that it was he who lent Lincoln a pencil with which the President wrote out the Address. The trouble with this story is that the first draft of the Address is written in ink and not in pencil. The sheets bear the letterhead Executive Mansion and show a clear, legible script. If Lincoln had composed the Address on the train, the writing would have been jerky.

There are five versions of the Address in Lincoln's handwriting. (Each version would sell today for $75,000 to $160,000.) The first draft, written in Washington and corrected in Gettysburg, contained 239 words. The second one (copied in Gettysburg on the day of the ceremonies) has 269 words. The third copy, which Lincoln wrote at the request of Edward Everett (the principal speaker at the ceremonies), has 273 words; while the last two copies (written out for George Bancroft) have 272 words each.

And what simple words they were. Of the 272 words, five have only one letter, the article "a"; 46 have two letters, 54 have three; 56 have four; 30 have five; 25 have six, and 13 have seven. The majority of the words—204 out of 272—have only one syllable. Fifty words have two syllables and only 18 have two or more.

Critics noted one blemish. Lincoln used the word "tnat" not less than 13 times. But he failed to use the personal pronoun "I" in the whole Address. The phrase, "government of the people, by the people, for the people," was not Lincoln's own. He probably borrowed it from the anti-slavery sermon of Theodore Parker. On May 29, 1850, Parker said in Boston: "There is what I call the American idea. This idea demands, as the proximate organization thereof, a democracy, that is, a government of all the people, by all the people, and for all the people; of course, a government of the principles of eternal justice, the unchanging law of God: for shortness sake I will call it the idea of Freedom."

Six People Celebrate Big Event

by Jim Riley

There was a triple celebration in East Stroudsburg Wednesday night. Everyone had a great time.

The big affair was brought about by a triple wedding anniversary, which totaled 64 years.

No, none of the couples was married that long, but their total years of married happiness totaled 64.

By this time you are no doubt wondering who took part in this shindig.

Wel, the guest of honor list included Mr. and Mrs. Earl "Hap" Metzger, 219 Washington St.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dougherty, 260 Braeside Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Read, 309 S. Courtland St.

"Hap" and Adolphine have been married 26 years, Jack and Pauline 19 years and Frank and Virginia, also 19.

Our congratulations may be belated, but they are truly sincere.

Folks about town know "Hap" as a bartender at Rudy's Grill, Jack as manager of the employment office and Frank as superintendent of the Central Labor Union Club.

"Amazing," commented a visitor. "Do those oddly assorted

Easing Of Credit Sparks Stock Market To Rally

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP) — The stock market continued to rally briskly today as Wall Street anticipated further credit-easing moves by the Federal Reserve Board.

Key stocks advanced from 1 to 3 points and some were up as much as 5 or so.

The rise was fairly general, except for aircrafts which were badly unsettled near the close when heavy selling hit Curtiss-Wright, which takes dividend action next week.

The market went charging ahead from the start. The ticker tape was late on two occasions, aggregating 11 minutes.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $2.50 to $156.80 with the industrials up $3.70, the rails up $1.80 and the utilities up $1.00.

Of 1,177 issues traded, 772 rose and 188 fell. There were 22 new lows and 10 new highs, the biggest number of the latter in many weeks.

Volume totaled 2,900,000 shares compared with 2,400,000 yesterday.

Of the 15 most active stocks, 11 rose and 4 fell.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was most active, up ½ at 49¼ on 62,800 shares. Second was Bethlehem Steel, up ⅜ at 38⅛ on 49,700 shares. Third was Curtiss-Wright, off 2⅞ at 26⅞ on 48,600 shares. Next came U.S. Steel, up ¾ at 54½.

Six Months Needed To Complete Fictional Journey Through Space, Visits At Planets

(Editor's Note: For years, science - fiction has captured the imagination of a large number of American readers. Today, as that "fiction" begins to become fact, The Daily Record prints this account of "space travel" by a Smithfield School seventh grader. It is an outgrowth of class study.)

By Charlotte Sittig

FASTEN your seat belts, the captain called. It was my first trip to the solar system along with 13 other passengers and my cat, "Blacky." We had six months of provisions.

We waved good-by to the folks and were on our way. Up—up—up we went. I could see Mother Earth, the Great Island and my home slowly getting smaller and smaller. I was beginning to get a little homesick but I knew that we couldn't turn around and go home again, so I decided to make the best of it.

Now we were going to our first sight, the sun. The guide told us that the sun is a bright star in space. We couldn't go any closer or we woulld turn to gas (and we wouldn't like that).

The sun is a mass of glowing gases. The guide also told us the diameter is about 865,000 miles. The surface temperature is about 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Everybody is getting hungry, so I guess it's time for lunch.

Now we are turned around and headed for Mercury. The guide says Mercury is about 31 million miles from the sun. It was only a small marble compared to the sun. Mercury is the closest one to the sun and is too hot to land on.

Now we are speeding for Venus. In our history class we studied that Venus was named for a beautiful goddess. I was very interested in her and decided to find out more about it. I asked the guide what the diameter and distance from the sun. He said the planet is 7,570 miles in diameter and was about 67,000,000 miles from the sun. I wrote everything down in my notes.

It is now about five p. m. and we are passing through the solar system to see the tiny little speck of earth. In science we learned that Earth is about 93,000,000 miles from the sun. It is the only planet that has life (that we know of). It is about 8,000 miles in diameter. It is very small compared to the sun. You could see that. It is about 8 p. m. and time for dinner and then bed. The next day, at dinner time, we will come to Mars.

Dana, Carol and I have just finished eating dinner. Almost all the passengers decided to get out at our refueling stations to see if there are really little men on Mars like we read in the books. Of course, we didn't see any. As soon as we got out, I looked about.

There was a big sign that read MARS, 4,240 miles in diameter and 140,000,000 miles from the Sun. We are going to stay at Mars overnight and then head for Jupiter.

It was now noon and we were practically on Jupiter. We could see it getting bigger and bigger, Jupiter was also a Roman god called Zeus. On our map scale, it said Jupiter is 486,000,000 miles from the sun and 86,700 miles in diameter. It has been a long day so after we ate we went to bed to dream of tomorrow's adventure.

The next afternoon we arrived at Saturn. We didn't land on Saturn because we just were so fascinated by the three rings that surrounded Saturn. We circled around it about three times.

We were now about 878,000,000 miles from the sun. Saturn is a little smaller than Jupiter so we figured it would be about 71,500 miles in diameter and about 887 million miles from the sun. We didn't stay there very long. Off we headed for Uranus.

We got to Uranus at midnight. Everyone was asleep so we didn't know we had landed. In the morning, when we all got up, we had a big surprise. It was chilly and all about us were things that looked like mountains and holes in the ground.

But when we got out, we could hardly walk. We climbed back into the ship and ate breakfast. Uranus was not very big. It is about 32,000 miles in diameter. We were told that it is about 1,755,000,000 miles from the sun—and very cold.

Now we were on our way again. We were headed for Neptune. It would take us about two days to get there. On the way be found out Neptune is 2,797,000,000 miles from the Earth. When we got there we couldn't land because it is so cold.

We are on our last planet, now. It is three months since we started and it would take us three months to get home. But first we are going to see Pluto—the smallest planet in the solar system and the coldest, too. That's why we don't land.

The guide told us that it is 3,670,000,000 miles from the sun. He also said that the diameter is unknown. We spent our last two days of the first three months floating around in space. Then, slowly, we turned around and headed for home . . . In no time we had passed Neptune, Uranus an dSaturn; now we were headed for Jupiter. It was our last month on the space rocket.

As we neared Earth, a chill ran up my spine. Our earth looked like a white snow ball. Then it turned to blue. And then you could see the islands. It was a great sight.

We circled around the earth a few hours to slow down our speed. Down, down we came—then "Thump" we landed.

In the crowd I could see the smiling faces of all the people and my parents. I ran to meet them. Then I knew my long and happy journey through the solar system had ended.

NEW WORLD A'COMIN'—Smithfield School seventh graders look over their scale-model project showing inter-related planets, moons, suns in space. Teacher Bernard Frantz shows "point" of departure for potential space travelers. For one girl's view of what tomorrow holds, see seventh grader's imaginative story in this issue. LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP) — The BBC program booklet of Nov. 12 announced: "On Friday, Nov. 21 at 9:50 p.m. Gary Watson will read passages selected by Kathleen Raine from Beane's Pathetic Books."

Mobster Trio Questioned

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP) — A police roundup began today of mobsters who attended last week's gangland gathering at Apalachin, N. Y., to question them about the association of racketeer Albert Anastasia.

Three were brought in to Brooklyn police headquarters and five others were being sought. The men were not under arrest.

Three Names

The three located, all from Brooklyn, were Joseph Profaci, 60, Paul Castellano, 45, and Natale Evola, 50.

Sought but not immediately located were Joseph Joe Bananas Bonnano; John Bonventra, 54; Carlo Gambino, 52; Carmine Lombardozzi, 44, and Armand T. Rava, 46, also all of Brooklyn.

Newspapers Honored By AP Group

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21 (AP)—Forty-seven newspapers today were honored by The Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. convention as winners of the 1957 APME citations for outstanding news and newsphoto coverage.

Two of the newspapers — the Providence Journal & Bulletin and the Denver Post—won citations for the fourth year in a row. Previously, only the Oakland (Calif.) Tribune had won four awards, from 1953 through 1956.

Citations

The citations are awarded annually and announced as the APME meets in convention to discuss the cooperative activities of the AP. The newspapers receive all AP members. Many newspapers cited this year supplied news or newsphotos on fast-breaking stories before they could use the copy themselves.

Legion Favors Exposing Redism

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 21 (AP)—The American Legion today reversed its long-standing policy against teaching anything about communism in public schools.

Along with the pro-American study courses the legion has long advocated, its Americanism Commission proposed instruction "to expose the fallacies of communism."

Mental Health Group Plans Board Meeting

MONROE COUNTY Mental Health Assn. will hold its annual board meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 4 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

A week later the first public meeting on mental health to be conducted for a general audience in this area will be held at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium.

The local MHA is now completing negotiations to secure one of America's most famous and expert authorities on mental health as its speaker for the Dec. 11 meeting at the college.

Mrs. Arthur Henning, MHA chairman, said last night:

"The December 11 meeting will mark the actual beginning of our broad-ranging education program for Monroe County. The speaker will be a man known to everyone who has been in any way interested in Mental Health action during recent years.

Chosen Subject

"Because we feel that many people tend to think of mental health in terms of only those who are badly disturbed we have chosen the subject of "Tension" for our first public meeting.

"Most people don't dealize that nervous tensions affect everything that we do and nearly every day of our lives. Learning to combat those tensions and live an adjusted, normal life is probably the foremost problem of our times.

"The December 11 meeting will be designed for everyone—not just those who are interested in the specific work of our organization. We want to fill the college auditorium if we possibly can. We feel that the small, seemingly unimportant mental health problems are the ones we need to discuss in such meetings as this one."

There will be no charge for admission to the Dec. 11 program. There will be a question and answer period following the main talk. Further announcements of the program will be made in the near future.

East Borough School Praised For Operation

HARVEY A. Heintzelman, chief of occupational information and guidance for the Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, visited East Stroudsburg Senior High School yesterday to study and make recommendations concerning the school's guidance program.

He visited various departments and classes, studied school personnel and vocational files, library guidance materials, organization of the school's counseling system and integration of guidance activities with community resources.

Favorable Comment

Heintzelman commented favorably on the individual counseling being done and pointed out that the latest statistics compiled by his department showed East Stroudsburg High ranks highest in Monroe County in the number of senior graduates pursuing further training beyond high school.

The local school's percentage rating compares favorably with the highest percentage ratings of leading schools in the state, he said.

Heintzelman also noted the need for better physical facilities at the school stating that overcrowded conditions are as critical in East Stroudsburg as in any senior high school he has visited in the state.

His visit was arranged by the school's guidance committee including Mrs. Martha Martin, John E. Eckert and Ralph O. Burrows.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

I knew I should come up with some new ideas if I went to the Garden Club luncheon, but I didn't realize I'd have to save most of them for another day when we have more room for all the pictures to show you what I mean.

Very tantalizing, but at the same time rich-feeling, like having a pocketful of unspent money.

Of course, anytime I listen to Roberta Fetherman I get enough ideas for a couple of columns and she didn't disappoint me. She had this dried arrangement of flowers from this summer she'd dried according to the instructions from last year's luncheon. She'd dried the flower heads in borax. How long did they have to stay there? Well, that depends how "juicy" the flowers were to begin with, she explained.

I also enjoyed her foot-notes on Isabelle Glassen's report on birds. Isabelle and John Glasson always attract the elite of the bird world and they've already had white throated sparrows, purple finches, juncos and evening grosbeaks this Fall.

Speaking of evening grosbeaks —I had a few myself. At least they were birds I'd never had before about the size of robins but with sort of forked tails and little parrot beaks. It always amazes me to locate a bird in the bird-book — sort of uncanny to check colors, markings, shape, size, and feeding habits and have them all agree.

I felt as if the man who wrote the bird-book was reading over my shoulder when I read "they are very fond of the berries on elder hedges" because there they sat on the elder hedge eating the berries. The only thing is, it was early morning not evening. I would have morning instead of evening grosbeaks when I'm seldom up in time to see them.

I have got some mourning doves, however, and very lonely and sorrowful sounding company they keep me in the dark hours. Maybe I better borrow a bit of Isabelles vibernum bush to attract more cheerful companions who like to eat at more reasonable hours.

Garden Club Luncheon For 73 Has Holiday Theme

The Monroe County Garden Club luncheon yesterday at the Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, had Thanksgiving as its theme and Christmas decorations for its program.

Mrs. William Hannas presided at the meeting which followed the luncheon. The luncheon itself was arranged by Mrs. Edgar Van Why with Thanksgiving decorations, corsages and place cards by Mrs. E. R. Travis and her committee and the program arranged by Mrs. Paul Fetherman.

Officers and guests introduced were Mrs. A. S. Phelps, vice president; Mrs. Paul Fetherman, secretary; Mrs. Edgar Van Why, treasurer; Mrs. J. Harold Lanterman, financial secretary; and past presidents, Mrs. Edward Knob, Mrs. A. S. Phelps, Mrs. E. R. Travis and Mrs. O. J. Liljenstein; and Mrs. Horace Westbrook of the Daily Record. There were 73 present for the luncheon.

Mrs. A. H. Mathieson presented a corsage featuring a Christmas rose. The report of the bird chairman, Mrs. John Glasson, indicated a wide variety of migrating birds which might visit feeders during this period. Mrs. Paul Fetherman exhibited a plaque with dried flowers, seed pods, and foliage arranged on a board and described its preparation.

The program featured a group of four women from the Pocono Garden Club who repeated the program they had given there earlier in the month showing various types of Christmas decorations. Mrs. Millard Rice introduced the speakers, who in turn described some of the steps in the preparation of their material:

Mrs. Donald Hartmen, Christmas packages; Mrs. Clyde White, Christmas candles; Mrs. Robert Marley tree decorations and favors; Mrs. Frank Melvin, unusual uses of inexpensive material; and Mrs. Rice, use of styrofoam and other new material.

Decorations made from ordinary household articles, made by Mrs. John Smith, were also displayed.

Student Teachers, Homework PTA Theme In Hamilton; Members Number 225

Hamilton Township — Dr. Nathan G. Meyers, director of Student Teaching and Placement at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and Lester J. Bowers, Director of Elementary Education at ESSTC, were guest speakers when the Hamilton Township Parent-Teacher Association met at the Hamilton Elementary School, Sciota, on Monday night, Nov. 17.

Dr. Meyers constrasted the student teaching plan of the 1930's with the present plan with which Hamilton co-operates, having student teachers in first and fifth grades.

Dr. Bowers spoke on the subject of "Homework." He told of the necessity of some, but not too much homework. Lower grades should have little homework with a gradual increase to more during high school years. He stressed the importance of budgeting time and of the parental attitude. Suggestions made to parents included (1) provide an attitude of interest, (2) show an interest in the school and attend school events, (3) provide a good environment for work at home, (4) go to see the teacher when problems arise, (5) visit the classroom.

John Edinger presided at the business session which opened with devotions led by the chaplain, Mrs. Robert Field.

Mrs. Virginia Wallace reported for the membership committee. 225 members have been enrolled in the PTA up to the present time but no room has exceeded in getting 100% parent membership. To win the award of $10 first grade must have 9 more parents to join; second grade, 12; third grade, 10; fourth grade, 19; fifth grade, 1, and sixth, 8. A total of 69 more parents must join for 100% membership for the school.

Billet For Bell?

The report for the School Board Committee was given by Howard Koehler who led a discussion on what should be done with the large bell, purchased with donations from the people of Sciota, and used by the Sciota school for over half a century. No decision was reached by those present but it was suggested that the older people of the village be consulted before any definite action is taken.

Announcement was made that the Playground Committee had accepted the responsibility of starting a school library and had purchased 77 books approved by the faculty. $50 was donated by the PTA for purchase of more literature. Donations of books or money will be welcomed. All books must be approved by the teaching staff for suitability.

Mrs. Enos Siptroth, speaking for the Playground Committee, stated that $10 had been given to each room for the purchase of games and educational toys. She announced that early in 1958 a detailed list of expenditures will be compiled, mimeographed and sent to parents and other interested persons.

A report was made on the dance held at the school on Nov. 16. Tentative date for the next dance is January 11.

Thanks for Union

A vote of thanks was given all persons who helped in any way to make possible the union of the Hamilton Township school system with the Stroud Union District.

Named as delegates by the president were Mrs. Virginia Wallace, Mrs. William Fetherman, Mrs. Robert Hedgelon, Mrs. Gwen Veety, Mrs. Lucy Warner, Mrs. Romayne Price, Edward Doney and Bernard Smith.

No meeting of the organization will be held in December. Next meeting will be on January 27. A meeting of the executive board is scheduled for January 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Refreshments were served by the sixth grade homeroom mothers who had decorated the all-purpose room with pine branches, turkey cut-outs and pilgrims. The buffet table was also in the Thanksgiving motif with a large cornucopia overflowing with fruit.

It takes a GIANT to stretch from coast to coast

Just as an enormous oil pipeline carries petroleum from producer to consumer, so does a giant medium carry goods from advertiser to consumer. That medium is the daily newspaper, a giant that lives in every town.

The newspaper pipeline is the shortest distance between advertiser and buyer. It functions without letup, carrying sales messages to an average 100,000,000 people daily.

The complete and constant coverage that newspapers guarantee every advertiser is one of the reasons that prompt advertisers to place an overwhelming emphasis on newspapers. Last year all advertisers spent $3,235,600,000 in newspaper advertising—more than they spent in television, radio, magazines and outdoor combined!

If you want a steady flow of your products to your consumers, use steady advertising in the daily newspaper. It's the most efficient and direct pipeline.

All business is local . . .
and so are all newspapers.

UNHERALDED football players are a dime a dozen. Not because their ability is such not to warrent space, but mainly because the "space" is never available. It's just one of these quirks of fate that nobody actually has control over.

Such is the case of East Stroudsburg High's Phil Simon the scatback who has done a magnificent job for Jack Kist this season, but didn't receive the newspaper and radio raves of his backfield mates, namely Carl (Corky) Smith, Co-captain Roger Ray and Don Miller and Cherley Lupin.

Simon, the smallest of the backfield boys who have carried the offensive and defensive load for the Cavaliers this season, didn't dent the scoring column as much as Ray and Smith, nor did he get a chance to break into Miller's punting domain, or Lupin's passing chores.

But he did things just as valuable, if not more worthy, giving an excellent exhibition in tackling and blocking in every game.

When Smith or Ray broke loose, Simon threw one of the key blocks which opened the door for the fleet-footed duo. When Miller got away his long punts, Phil set up a one-player protective line for the Cavalier booter.

Tackling, Simon is one of the best on the squad. Among his backfield mates he reigns superior. There never has been an invading back who has gotten through Simon. He is that sure of a tackler, this 137-pound bundle of energy.

Offensively, Little Phil does not have to take a hat off to anyone. If you counted the times he carried the mail with his yardage gained you'd get a very respectable figure.

This lad does a terrific job defensively and offensively for Jack Kist. There is no halfway with Simon. It's all out in every Eastburg outing. We imagine this 5-4 boy looks mighty big to his backfield teammates when one of the opposition is eating dirt, enabling a Cavalier to go all the way.

Basketball enriched the coffers of the PIAA's District 11 treasury $5,174.69 this past season. According to the report of District 11, Treasurer Herman P. Snyder, of Slatington, basketball receipts were $22,317.88, and expenses for the sport were $17,143.19.

This covered all district runoff games as well as the district's share in inter-district, regional, semi-final and final tilts.

In all other sports, a deficit was reported. In baseball, District 11 took in $56040, but paid out $682.79; wrestling's take was $909.25, while expenses were $1,169.57; track, showed receipts of $22090, and expenditures of $1,614.00.

Football is not in the playoff category, so the District does not share in tournament gate receipts of any kind.

Even with this "red ink" in three out of the four sports, the District has a balance in the treasury of $10,527.05. Purchase of United States Savings Bonds and Home Savings and Loan Certificates help to swell the "bright side" of the ledger annually.

Although naturally pleased with Shippensburg's sharing the PTFC championship with Lock Haven, Tom Crist, athletic director and assistant football coach at Shippensburg, said he would like to have won championship with every team in the conference playing six conference games instead of the present required minimum of four games.

He'll promote change in bylaws at next Monday's conference meeting in Harrisburg.

Caffie hit .330 and edged John Jaciuk of Richmond, who finished second with .322. Russ Sullivan, who divided his team between Columbus and Buffalo, was third with .314. He was followed by Frank Herrera of Miami with .306 and Mike Baxes of Buffalo with .303.

Ivy, PCC Crowns On Line Tomorrow

Other Action Tops Between Two Coasts

By The Associated Press

FACE TO FACE clashes will settle the Ivy League and Pacific Coast Conference championships Saturday but there will be plenty of other high powered action between the two coasts.

Undefeated, once-tied Dartmouth, 5-0-1 in Ivy competition, journeys to Princeton (5-1-0), needing only a tie to sew up the league title. Princeton is a three-point choice.

Oregon, all set for its first Rose Bowl appearance since 1920, will be out to clinch the PCC pennant as well in its traditional windup with arch-rival Oregon State in a pick 'em game. Oregon is 6-1-0 in the PCC to State's 5-2-0, and a draw at Oregon also could wrap things up for the Webfoots. State is barred from playing in the bowl for two years in a row.

Duke, which has virtually locked up the Atlantic Coast Conference's berth in the Orange Bowl against Oklahoma, closes at North Carolina in a bid for the ACC flag. North Carolina State, hoping for Duke to stumble, plays at South Carolina. Duke is 5-0-1 and N.C. State 4-0-1 in league competition. The Wolfpack can't go a-bowling because of an NCAA ban.

Rated Even

Surprisingly South Carolina is rated even with N.C. State. Duke is 7½ points over North Carolina.

The Southeastern and Southwest Conference titles, with its rewarding berths in the Sugar and Cotton bowls, won't be decided until the following week.

With Michigan State and Auburn, the 1-2 teams of the nation, facing easy opponents (but don't let their coaches hear you say it), the leading games matching high-ranking opponents pit third-ranking Ohio State (7-1), the Big Ten champs, against Michigan (5-2-1), and eighth-ranking Iowa (8-1-1) against ninth-ranking Notre Dame (5-2).

Plan Suit Of $4,200,000

CLEVELAND, Nov. 21 (AP)—Attorney Creighton Miller, representing an association of professional football players which seeks recognition from the National Football League, today disclosed plans for a $4,200,000 lawsuit under the antitrust laws.

But Miller said the suit probably would not be filed against the NFL if owners of NFL clubs agree to demands of the National Football League Players Assn. at the league's next meeting in Philadelphia Dec. 2.

He said the most important demand was for recognition by NFL owners.

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell said in Philadelphia he needs "a 10-12ths vote of the owners to complete any agreement (with the NFLPA). We'll get that at our meeting."

Object To Rules

Miller said the association, which claims representatives from 11 of the 12 NFL teams, objects to certain league rules which, he said, give the league "complete and absolute control" over players.

The damage figure was based on an estimate of the difference betwen what "the players are getting now and what they would be able to get if they were able to offer their services to an open market."

Miller added: "Our plans are to charge the league, the clubs and the owners with violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act, and to ask treble damages amounting to $4,200,000."

Asked whether he considered the "objectionable" league rules or recognition more important, Miller indicated the most important thing was to be able to negotiate with the various clubs on individual cases.

The attorney, a one-time Notre Dame football star, said Bell "somehow got wind of our intention to file the suit on Nov. 14. And on Nov. 13 he telephoned me, saying he felt the club owners would agree to our demands at their next meeting.

Agreed To Delay

"So we've agreed to delay the filing until Dec. 3."

Bell said he had made recommendations to the owners on Oct. 16, and added several more Nov. 4, "long before Miller's decision to file suit.

"I did tell him that he would be very dumb to file one, that things were going along very well and that Rome wasn't built in a day.

"I told him about the recommendations and said they probably would be passed at either our Dec. 2 meeting or at our annual meeting in January. The subject is on the Dec. 2 agenda."

From First, To Second, To High Speed

SHIFT too fast or too far with the first step and you throw your stride out of gear. The first step in standard (four step) foowork must be short and slow (see sketch). Take it easy.

Over-shift, or over-step to start with, and you can't get the all-important co-ordination of the first step and the push-away of the ball. They have to be put together in perfect unison to make possible the further rhythmic stride to the foul line.

The slow first-step applies regardless what position you start from—whether the ball is held chest-high from an erect stance; waist-high, or below the waist.

Disastrous Way

Rushing the second step is, of course, just as disastrous as jumping away with the first. In this case, again, the swing gets behind the stride; and at the foul line the body will be leading the ball so that a reaching follow-through is impossible.

The swinging ball actually regulates footwork, if you'll give it the chance to swing. Push the ball away and let it drop down in its backswing of its own weight. Make no conscious effort to speed yaur second step. Forget it, in fact. Simply move forward in stride, naturally and easily.

It is then that the swinging ball takes over. Between the second and third step it goes into its downward arc; and by being totally relaxed, the momentum of the ball will take you smoothly to the line with a finishing slide.

Coleman Hangs Up Spikes For Yank Front Office Job

Nine-Year Bomber Veteran To Learn Workings Of Farm

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Jerry Coleman, after nine years as an infielder with the New York Yankees, has retired as an active player and joined the organization as a front office man.

Yankee General Manager George Weiss, who made the announcement today, said no specific title has been given the 33-year-old Coleman. He will work under Lee MacPhail, director of player personnel, and Johnny Johnson, assistant farm director.

"Jerry has not been assigned to any specific duties," Weiss said. "We want him to familiarize himself with the working of the Yankee organization as a whole with particular attention to the farm department.

"Until he learns the administrative side of the game, his duties will consist of special scouting in the New York area and elsewhere, field instructor at the Yankees' annual instructional school at St. Petersburg, Fla., infield instructor at Yankee minor league camps, liaison work with minor league clubs, and personal appearances for the Yankees."

Coleman, a veteran of all nine of Casey Stengel's Yankee teams, expressed happiness over his new job.

Got Offer Oct. 27

"Mr. Weiss made me the offer last Oct. 27," Coleman disclosed. "He said for me to take my time considering the offer. But I think by the time the elevator had reached bottom, I had it made up. In fact, I started working for the Yankees Nov. 1.

"It was such a fabulous offer, I just couldn't turn it down. Oh yes, I got a raise in salary, too. I think it's a fine opportunity. Certainly better than sitting on the bench."

Coleman, who led all the Yankees in the recent World Series with a .364 batting average, said he already had decided to play with no team other than the Yankees.

Busy Warrior Calhoun Set For TV Tiff

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Rory Calhoun and his manager are old fashioned. They think the only way for a fighter to get ahead is to keep fighting. That is why Calhoun, a highly ranked middleweight contender, will be boxing his ninth main event of the year tomorrow night against Bobby Boyd.

The 10-round match at Madison Square Garden gets the usual NBC radio and television network coverage, starting at 10 p.m., EST

This is the second time around for Calhoun on the middleweight round robin that has dominated the fall season at the Garden while Sugar Ray Robinson ponders his ring future. Until Robinson makes up his mind about his rematch with Carmen Basilio, the new champ can't make a move.

30-2-1 Record

Calhoun hasn't let this roadblock bother him. He just keeps on fighting—and winning most of the time. His record for 33 fights is 30-2-1 including a 6-1-1 record for 1957.

The 23-year-old strong man from White Plains, N. Y. (via McDonough, Pa.) won 23 straight until he lost a split decision to Spider Webb, Aug. 29, 1956. He lost a decision to Joey Giardello, May 17 at Cleveland and fought a draw with Joey Giambra, June 21. However, Calhoun whipped Giambra in an Aug. 26 rematch at San Francisco.

Calhoun is a 2 to 1 favorite over Boyd, 24-year-old Chicago boxer who has won all six of his 1957 starts.

Martin Warns Athletes Of Academic Responsibility

BANGOR—"When the season is a poor one, a football coach's only recourse is the old standby—we're building character."

So saying, Eugene H. Martin, football coach and dean of men at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, seized the opportunity to stress another character-building subject—academic responsibilities—at the Bangor Exchange Club's annual football dinner Wed. night.

With some 50 Bangor Area High squad members as honored guests, the affair was held at Blue Valley Farm Show auditorium. Townsmen, parents of players and Exchangites were among the more than 100 present.

"Premium on Grades"

Dean Martin, pointing out that increasingly overtaxed college facilities are putting a premium on good scholastic grades for entrance, urged that the same high spirit of enthusiasm be attached to both scholastic and sport endeavors. Equally compatible to championship attainments in either field, he said, are attributes like hard work, keeping in good physical condition, co-operation, setting a goal and striving for it.

The speaker was introduced by Millard Gleim. The guests were welcomed by President Glen Butler.

DePamphillis Emcee

Toastmaster Marvin DePamphillis introduced Coach Granville Evans, who responded with brief remarks, and Assistant Coaches David Pritchard and Paul Wagner; Isaiah Resh, donor of the Ike Resh Trophy, and former B. H. S. players Barney Stenlake, Vincent DeFranko and Ronald Arndt.

Charles R. Steinmetz played for group singing. Club Chaplain Harvey J. Miller offered the invocation. The turkey dinner was served by Trinity Church's United Lutheran Workers organization.

Serving with DePamphillis on the arrangements committee were George Williams, Butler, Gleim and Wilson Jackson.

Hutch Favored Shun Of Trade

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21 (AP)—Manager Fred Hutchinson of the St. Louis Cardinals said today he favored a turned-down trade involving St. Louis centerfielder Ken Boyer.

Hutchinson, called here from Florida for talks with new General Manager Vaughn "Bing" Devine, said of the 26-year-old Boyer:

"He has potential, all right, but I don't know whether he's determined enough to achieve that potential."

Hutchinson reviewed the proposed trade with the Pittsburgh Pirates that was turned down by club President August A. Busch, Jr., and Executive Vice President Dick Meyer.

The deal reportedly would have sent Boyer and pitcher Willard Schmidt to Pittsburgh for outfielder Frank Thomas and infielder Gene Freese.

Byrne Thinking Of Retirement

DUNN, N. C., Nov. 21 (AP)—New York Yankee pitcher Tommy Byrne has indicated that he may not play baseball next year.

Byrne told the Dunn Kiwanis Club yesterday, "I'm going to be hard to sign. I have been very seriously thinking about retiring."

The veteran lefthander termed Mickey Mantle "the biggest draw in baseball" but said Mantle's recurring physical troubles could possibly take him out of action within four or five years.

Eastburg In Heavy Drills Preparing For Stroudsburg

FEARFUL of a letdown, East Stroudsburg High coach Jack Kist sent his Cavaliers through a long, hard workout yesterday, preparing for its Thanksgiving Day duel with arch-rival Stroudsburg.

"The boys haven't looked sharp in three days," Kist said prior to yesterday's drill.

"We plan to work extra hard this week and start to taper off on Monday," he said.

10 a.m. Duel

The Cavaliers meet the Mountaineers at Gordon Giffels Field Thursday morning, starting at 10 a.m.

East Stroudsburg, enjoying its finest season since 1952 with a 7-1 record, has been working on both offense and defense.

Kist plans to continue this type of heavy duty until the final two days when he'll cut down to signal drills.

Lane To Try And Lure Rosen Back To Indians' Lineup

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21 (AP)—General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians said today he will try and lure former Cleveland third baseman Al Rosen out of his one-year retirement.

"I have a luncheon engagement with Rosen in Cleveland Saturday," Lane told a press conference here today. "He's very much interested and I'm hopeful that he might come back."

"If Rosen plays," Lane said, "it would help the Cleveland club and boost the morale of the Cleveland fans.

Lane described the 33-year-old Rosen as a person having a good deal of pride, who would not go back into baseball unless he could give a good performance and was in tip-top physical shape.

Lane said he was interested in obtaining Harvey Kuenn from the Detroit Tigers and reported he had approached Detroit General Manager John McHale for a multiple-player deal involving Kuenn.

Princeton Seminary Choir To Sing In East Borough

THE PRINCETON SEMINARY Choir will present a service of sacred music in the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church on Sunday at 5 p. m.

All members of this male chorus are college graduates who are now enrolled at Princeton Theological Seminary for at least three years of graduate study in preparation for the Christian ministry.

David H. Jones

They represent a fair cross section of the Seminary's student body of 500 who come from all parts of the United States and many foreign countries and from over 50 different church denominations.

The men in this year's choir come from 14 states and five foreign countries. One member is a native of British Guiana who worked his way through college by singing calypso; two are from Ireland; one, the son of a missionary, from Seoul, Korea; one comes from Australia, and another from Milan, Italy, a graduate of the Waldensian Seminary.

Armed Forces

Six choir men have served in the Armed Forces, and 12 have won varsity letters in track, wrestling, football, rugby, cricket or basketball.

David Hugh Jones, Music Doctorate, FAGO, ASCAP, was a charter member of the faculty of the Westminster Choir College and was the head of the organ and composition departments of that school for a number of years. Also, he has been Director of Music at Princeton Seminary since 1934.

In 1951 he relinquished his post at the Choir College to devote his entire time to Princeton Seminary as professor of music. He has published a number of choral works and was editor of The Hymnbook, published by five Presbyterian and Reformed denominations in 1955.

The choir will come to East Stroudsburg following a morning engagement at the First Presbyterian Church in Clarks Summit. The group will be entertained at supper by the church following the service.

Reds Extend Large Amount Of Credit

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The State Department estimates that Russia has extended more than a billion dollars worth of credit to underdeveloped nations in the past three years.

To hold up its end in this phase of the cold war, the department wants the new Development Loan Fund, for which Congress appropriated $300 million dollars this year, expanded to nearly a billion for 1958-59.

In addition, the United States, which pays for about 40 per cent of the United Nations technical assistance program, has agreed that this fund should be upped from 30 million dollars to 100 million.

Special Fund

But the United States is opposed to the establishment of what U.N. delegates call Sunfed, a Special United Nations Fund for Economic Development.

Many people do not understand why the United States, willing to conduct its own development program with its own money, will not join in a similar U.N. effort. Strong arguments have been made that such action would help regain some of this country's old time reputation for altruism, which has suffered because of the strings attached to the bilateral agreements of the Mutual Aid Program, much of which is devoted to military aid.

The U.S. reply is that it doesn't mind spending where it can check the need and the prospects for success of special projects, and and that it is willing to contribute to 50 million dollars worth of special projects under an expanded U.N. technical assistance program. But the United States doesn't want to contribute to the proposed 150 or 250 million U.N. program. It does not believe the underdeveloped countries are prepared to handle such a sum until surveys have been made and engineers trained under the technical aid programs.

Charge For Skis

TOKYO, Nov. 21 (AP)—The forest of skis that sprouts each winter on Japan National Railway trains may thin out a bit. Ski-carrying patrons will be charged 16.6 cents—equivalent—extra fare with a dual hoped-for result: fewer skis and about $666,720 added rail revenue.

Constitutional Rights Of Negroes Argued In Court

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21 (AP)—The constitutional right of Negro boys to enroll in privately endowed Girard College despite a will restriction to "poor, white male orphans" was attacked and defended today, both legally and emotionally, before Pennsylvania's Supreme Court.

The state's highest tribunal—with only five of the seven justices hearing the racial issue—last year held that the will of merchant-financier Stephen Girard flatly excluded Negro students in the school founded in 1831. It ruled the will must be upheld.

This ruling was reversed by the U. S. Supreme Court in April, on the ground that the Board of City Trusts of Philadelphia, described as a state agency, operated the private school and that any discrimination because of race, color or religion violated the 14th Amendment to the federal Constitution.

Back came the case to the State Supreme Court, which promptly passed it along to the Philadelphia Orphans Court for final action. The original attack on the bill was launched nearly four years ago by two fatherless Negro boys seeking admission to Girard College.

The Orphans Court removed the Board of City Trusts, appointed a new group of private trustees and said the will's provision for white orphans only was still valid.

The state of Pennsylvania and the city of Philadelphia blasted this view today, charging that it permits the continuance of racial discrimination.

Not so, argued the attorney for the new trustees, pressing this point: "This is in no sense a segregation or discrimination case. It is a case of charitable trusts."

Absent from the bench were Justices Herbert Cohen and John C. Arnold. The former disqualified himself because he had taken sides in the dispute when he was state attorney general. Justice Arnold was ill.

Response Good For Area Diabetes Tests

MONROE County Medical Society yesterday reported a fine initial response to the current Diabetes Detection Drive.

Some people, however, are neglecting to furnish all the information that is needed to complete the free diabetes checks that are being made.

Dr. John L. Rumsey, drive chairman, said everyone who is using the tes-tape method to facilitate the testing should be sure to fill out the spaces on the packet and the envelope before mailing them to the General Hospital.

Information

On the tes-tape packet should be included the name of the person making the test, age, address, sex, date and family physician's name. Inside the packet, next to a yellow strip of material, are three colored panels. The person making the test is asked to mark an "x" in the block matching the color of the strip after the test is completed.

Dr. Rumsey said hospital technicians cannot properly evaluate the test results unless all of the information is provided.

Persons who did not receive tes-tapes are urged to take a urine specimen to the family physician for a free diabetes chck.

An additional endorsement of the drive came yesterday from Gerald Brodsky, assistant plant manager of Ronson Corp., Delaware Water Gap. He wrote:

Letter

"I feel that all of us should be thankful we are living in an age where preventive and corrective medicine has permitted the early detection and control of many diseases.

"Our good fortune is enhanced even further by the fact that we have, in this county, a progressive Medical Society which is now making available a means for the early detection of diabetes.

"Considering the fact that early detection of diabetes substantially decreases the discomfort and complications in the diabetic's life, and that the means for this early detection is offered at no charge, I would repeat an often-heard statement, 'This is a bargain which we cannot afford to pass by.'

"Therefore, I strongly encourage co-workers and townspeople to immediately take advantage of this service—take the simple test for diabetes now."

Visit To Indies

THE HAGUE, Nov. 21 (AP)—Dutch Crown Princess Beatrix will pay a one-month visit next February, soon after her 20th birthday, to the Dutch West Indies and Dutch Guinea—officially known as the Netherlands Antilles and Surinam.

State Justice Department Becomes Official Today

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21 (AP)—An arm of the state Justice Department whose specific function is the protection of Pennsylvanians' civil rights came into being today.

Authorization to establish the new branch, known as the Division of Civil Rights, was sought by Atty. Gen. McBride yesterday. The state Executive Board took favorable action on the proposal.

Deputy Attorney

Victor Wright, a deputy attorney general who heads the Division of Criminal Investigation was named to take charge of the new department branch.

McBride said the division would look into infringement of all rights guaranteed to citizens by the U.S. and State Constitutions. He added it would use "enforcement by means of persuasion, mediation and everything short of positive court action unless that is found necessary" to uphold these guarantees.

McBride said the need for such a new branch of the Justice Department was pointed out by disorders that arose when a Negro family moved into the all-white Levittown development, near Philadelphia this summer.

Marines Make Rank Changes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—In this jet age of missiles and streamlining, the Marine Corps is turning back to a few things of the old days.

Marine Commandant Gen. Randolph M. Pate ordered the rank of gunnery sergeant taken from retirement and restored to its traditional role it lost in 1946. It was retired then after having existed since Congress established it May 4, 1808.

Three Nurses Honored By Association

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three veteran nurses were awarded citations by the Pennsylvania Nurses Assn. tonight at its annual banquet.

The citations are made annually to persons who have "rendered distinguished service and valuable assistance to the nursing profession in Pennsylvania."

Names of Honored

Those honored were Mrs. Katherine E. F. Miller of Harrisburg, Miss Alice M. O'Halloran of Philadelphia, and Miss Anna G. Prather of Meadville.

Miss Prather won the citation for having served more than 50 years in the field of private duty nursing.

Town, State Move Toward Agreement

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—The Town of Lewiston and the State Power Authority moved toward agreement today on construction details of the Niagara power project.

The authority agreed at the Federal Power Commission hearings to build a $225,000 pumping station, if necessary, to carry sewage over or under the canal it plans to use to carry water to the generators at Lewiston.

The FPC hoped to wind up the local "community disruption" phase of its hearing today or tomorrow. The hearing will return to Washington, probably Monday.

Investigation Continues In Fire Deaths

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—The city's public safety commissioner, Charles Gorman, said today no possibilities were being overlooked—including arson—in the investigation of last Saturday's tenement fire that took the lives of 15 children and three adults.

He said that, in addition to possible accidental or spontaneous causes, investigators were looking into the chance that the fire had been set deliberately by a pyromaniac or by someone acting with a revenge motive.

Death certificates have not yet been filed. In terms of lives lost, the fire was the worst in this city's history.

Snow Rolls Into Western New York State

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—Snow flurries and occasional severe squalls hopscotched across upstate New York today, with the heaviest falls—unofficially up to 8 or 10 inches—reserved for the snowbelts at the eastern ends of Lakes Erie and Ontario.

Police reported highways dangerous and visibility poor at times in the snowbelts.

Hardest hit area apparently was southern Erie County and northern Chautauqua and Cattaraugus — in the Lake Erie snowbelt. The snow also worked around to the east of Buffalo. The city itself had only light flurries that melted on the ground.

Temperatures hovered around freezing.

The Weather Bureau forecast: More of the same through tomorrow.

The snow was wet and heavy in most sections, leading to snapped utility lines and short circuits. Telephone long distance service was lowed in some areas in western New York.

Sale 6.98

REGULAR 8.98

Boys' and Girls' sizes—3-6x

Prettier than a Christmas Rose will be the lucky child who has one of these adorably flattering snow suits, with matching brimmed hat, snugly strapped beneath the chin. Some are of nylon . . . some of gabardine, and all are warmly interlined, beneath the quilted lining.

There is, for instance, a perfectly precious dark brown gabardine with primitive stick men, cavorting in printed corduroy across the yoke and pockets.

And there are nylons, in two-tone contrasts, with nursery-type embroidery to amuse the tiny wearer. There are all kinds . . . and they are convenienty zippered.
